DIDASCALICON - Overview And Expanded Index - Hugh Of St. Victor

Ulrik Rasmussen
Business Advisor

January 6, 2022

When reading "Didascalicon" I was missing an overview of the work.

Both for the benefit of knowing, what the structure were, and also to know if the work was worth reading - even cursorily.

I have not been able to find such an index anywhere. Therefore I have compiled the following index of chapters in the 6 books.

As the title suggests it is a work concerning didactics and learning. It is not exactly as sometimes stated an encyclopedia, however it does touch on many concepts, ideas and areas of knowledge, which Hugh of St. Victor thinks will be instructive in the formation of a learned scholar, even if he does not really think this endeavour is for everyone.

That this is not an encyclopedia in the classic sense, you will easily ascertain, when glancing over the index below.

The source has been:

"The Didascalicon of Hugh of St. Victor: a medieval guide to the arts", Translated by Jerome Taylor, Columbia University Press, New York and London, 1961.

BOOK I Chapter One: Concerning the Origin of the Arts
BOOK I Chapter Two: That Philosophy is the Pursuit of Wisdom
BOOK I Chapter Three: Concerning the Threefold Power of the Soul
BOOK I Chapter Four: What Matters Pertain to Philosophy
BOOK I Chapter Five: Concerning the Rise of the Theoretical, the Practical,
BOOK I Chapter Six: Concerning the Three "Manners" of Things
BOOK I Chapter Seven: Concerning the Superlunary and Sublunary World
BOOK I Chapter Bight: In What Man Is like unto God
BOOK I Chapter Nine: Concerning the Three Works
BOOK I Chapter Ten: What "Nature" Is
BOOK I Chapter Eleven: Concerning the Origin of Logic

BOOK II Chapter One : Concerning the Distinguishing of the Arts
BOOK II Chapter Two: Concerning Theology
BOOK II Chapter Three : Concerning Mathematics
BOOK II Chapter Four: Concerning the Number "Four" of the Soul
BOOK II Chapter Five: Concerning the Number ''Four"' of the Body
BOOK II Chapter Six: Concerning the Quadrivium
BOOK II Chapter Seven: Concerning the Term "Arithmetic"
BOOK II Chapter Eight: Concerning the Term "Music"
BOOK II Chapter Nine: Concerning the Term "Geometry"
BOOK II Chapter Ten : Concerning the Term "Astronomy"
BOOK II Chapter Eleven : Concerning Arithmetic
BOOK II Chapter Twelve : Concerning Music
BOOK II Chapter Thirteen: Concerning Geometry
BOOK II Chapter Fourteen : Concerning Astronomy
BOOK II Chapter Fifteen : Definition of the Quadrivium
BOOK II Chapter Sixteen : Concerning Physics
BOOK II Chapter Seventeen : What the Proper Business of Each Art Is BOOK II Chapter Eighteen : Comparison of the Foregoing
BOOK II Chapter Nineteen : Continuation of the Previous Chapter
BOOK II Chapter Twenty : The Division of Mechanical Sciences into Seven
BOOK II Chapter Twenty-one : First—Fabric Making
BOOK II Chapter Twenty-two : Second—Armament
BOOK II Chapter Twenty-three : Third—Commerce
BOOK II Chapter Twenty-jour : Fourth—Agriculture
BOOK II Chapter Twenty-five : Fifth—Hunting
BOOK II Chapter Twenty-six : Sixth—Medicine
BOOK II Chapter Twenty-seven : Seventh—Theatrics
BOOK II Chapter Twenty-eight : Concerning Logic, Which Is the Fourth Part of BOOK II Chapter Twenty-nine : Concerning Grammar
BOOK II Chapter Thirty : Concerning the Theory of Argument

BOOK III Chapter One: Concerning the Order and Method of Study and Discipline
BOOK III Chapter Two : Concerning the Authors of the Arts
BOOK III Chapter Three : Which Arts Are Principally to Be Read
BOOK III Chapter Four: Concerning the Two Kinds of Writings
BOOK III Chapter Five : That to Each Art Should be Given What Belongs to It
BOOK III Chapter Six: What Is Necessary for Study
BOOK III Chapter Seven : Concerning Aptitude as Related to Natural Endowment
BOOK III Chapter Eight: Concerning Order in Expounding a Text
BOOK III Chapter Nine: Concerning the Method of Expounding a Text
BOOK III Chapter Ten: Concerning Meditation
BOOK III Chapter Eleven : Concerning Memory
BOOK III Chapter Twelve : Concerning Discipline
BOOK III Chapter Thirteen : Concerning Humility
BOOK III Chapter Fourteen : Concerning Eagerness to Inquire
BOOK III Chapter Fifteen : Concerning the Four Remaining Precepts
BOOK III Chapter Sixteen : On Quiet
BOOK III Chapter Seventeen : On Scrutiny
BOOK III Chapter Eighteen: On Parsimony
BOOK III Chapter Nineteen: On a Foreign Soil

BOOK IV Chapter One : Concerning the Study of the Sacred Scriptures
BOOK IV Chapter Two : Concerning the Order and Number of the Books
BOOK IV Chapter Three : Concerning the Authors of the Sacred Books
BOOK IV Chapter Five : Concerning Translators
BOOK IV Chapter Six: Concerning the Authors of the New Testament
BOOK IV Chapter Seven : That All the Other Scriptures Are Apocryphal, and What an Apocryphal Scripture Is
BOOK IV Chapter Eight: The Sense of the Names of the Sacred Books
BOOK IV Chapter Nine : Concerning the New Testament
BOOK IV Chapter Ten : Concerning the Tables, or Canons, of the Gospels
BOOK IV Chapter Eleven : Concerning the Canons of the Councils
BOOK IV Chapter Twelve : That the Principal Synods Are Four
BOOK IV Chapter Thirteen: Who Have Made Libraries
BOOK IV Chapter Fourteen: Which Writings Are Authentic
BOOK IV Chapter Fifteen : Which Are the Apocryphal Writings
BOOK IV Chapter Sixteen : Some Etymologies of Things Pertaining to Reading

BOOK V Chapter One: Concerning Properties of Sacred Scripture and the Manner of Reading It
BOOK V Chapter Two : Concerning the Threefold Understanding
BOOK V Chapter Three : That Things, Too, Have a Meaning in Sacred Scripture
BOOK V Chapter Four : Concerning the Seven Rules
BOOK V Chapter Five : What Interferes with Study
BOOK V Chapter Six: What the Fruit of Sacred Reading Is BOOK V Chapter Seven : How Scripture Is to Be Studiedfor the Correction of Morals
BOOK V Chapter Eight: That Study Is for Beginners, Action for the Perfect
BOOK V Chapter Nine : Concerning the Four Steps
BOOK V Chapter Ten : Concerning the Three Types of Students

BOOK VI Chapter One: How the Sacred Scripture Should Be Read by Those Who Seek Knowledge in it
BOOK VI Chapter Tivo : Concerning the Order Which Exists in the Disciplines
BOOK VI Chapter Three : Concerning History
BOOK VI Chapter Four: Concerning Allegory
BOOK VI Chapter Five : Concerning Tropolog y, That Is, Morality
BOOK VI Chapter Six : Concerning the Order of Books
BOOK VI Chapter Seven : Concerning Order of Narration
BOOK VI Chapter Eight: Concerning the Order of Exposition
BOOK VI Chapter Nine : Concerning the Letter
BOOK VI Chapter Ten : Concerning the Sense
BOOK VI Chapter Eleven : Concerning the Deeper Meaning
BOOK VI Chapter Twelve : Concerning the Method of Expounding a Text
BOOK VI Chapter Thirteen: That We Are Not Here Going to Speak of Meditation